

July 20, 2023

Just last week, our campus community, in preparation for Reunion 2023, held an all-hands meeting in the community room. I am proud and amazed with how we rallied the campus and rose to the occasion with exceptional responsiveness and hospitality.

I extend my gratitude to the many hands and hearts that made the entire event possible. Behind the scenes, we had 46 dedicated members of the Volunteer Work Project who worked 1667.5 hours amounting to $54,026.50 if paid at an hourly rate.

The Antioch College Reunion 2023 brought 150 illustrious alumni and friends to our beloved campus. They were greeted with a full agenda. The days and nights were packed with awards and recognition, generosity of time, talents, and gifts, Div dance, DJs, and food trucks.

Elise Roenigk received the Horace Mann award Friday night for her steadfast commitment to supporting Antioch College and her remarks brought a standing ovation recognizing how she stands as an Antiochian winning victories for humanity.

In the President's Address, "More than a College" covered information about our Board approved Social Enterprise and Enrollment Plan. An "At a Glance" version is provided here. We are very excited about moving Antioch to a more effective cost structure and a new, exciting version of our self-design curriculum to market to future students.

Our student workers lended their assistance tirelessly, our staff and faculty did their very best to extend our hospitality, and our community rallied together.

Reunion has no meaning without all of our alumni and friends, and we are again grateful for your continued commitment to Antioch and in your sharing yourselves with us once again.

With the help of the Magic Hat, we were able to raise over $100,000! Text to donate was a huge hit and the live thermometer went through the roof. Thank you to everyone who made a gift and for all the great energy in the room and online. There is still time for you to make a gift of pledge. Donate here: <https://antiochcollege.edu/give23>

We look forward to welcoming you back once more to Reunion 2024.

Sincerely,

Jane Fernandes, President
