What is Counseling?

Counseling is meeting with a licensed mental health professional (i.e. counselor) to work on building positive thinking processes and coping mechanisms to manage problems. Therapy can be used to address and treat mental illness, but not everyone who could benefit from therapy has a mental health diagnosis. Therapy can help with a variety of everyday problems and understandings oneself better.

Mental Health Supports

Antioch currently has grant funds to support two key projects:

- 1) Students can access free mental health assessments for ADHD, Autism, and Learning Disabilities. This is a joint project between Counseling Services and Student Success departments. To learn more you can speak with any counselor or reach out to Alyssa in Student Success department at ayoxtheimer@antiochcollege.edu.

Independent Groups (IGs)

Student-led groups or IGs are encouraged at Antioch as a way to have fun and support one another. New IGs are being made every term. If you're interested in starting your own, the form can be found in the Community Government Shared Drive (see page 9). You'll need to provide a statement of purpose and collect five signatures. If approved, you could get a budget for snacks and supplies for events from Comcil.

Weston Hall

Weston Hall is your student union. It is a space for students to study, relax, or socialize. IG meetings are often held here. Additionally, students can contact the student Event Coordinator to plan larger events in the building.

Conflict Resolution

Student Affairs staff can assist with supporting student mediation in case of conflict. Email deanofstudents@antiochcollege.edu for more information. See page 20 for off-campus mediation resources.

Community Government

Everyone at Antioch has access to the Community Government \(CG\) Shared Drive. This drive contains forms, the updated student handbook, organizational charts, and ComCil minutes. To understand the process of community government here at Antioch College, access the “Other Resources” folder to find a PDF that provides explanation. If there are other resources you feel should live in the CG Shared Drive, please advise!

The Academic Student Success Center

Email: studentsupport@antiochcollege.edu

The Olive Kettering Library is home to the Academic Student Success Center. Here you can access the Writing Institute which provides student resources and help from writing professors and tutors. Other services include disability accommodations (including Emotional Support Animals), tutoring services, academic planning, Southwestern Ohio Council for Higher Education help, textbook assistance, and more. The library contains computers, a printer, and writing supplies, so stop by for some studying and a cup of tea.

ESA Policy

Students are permitted to have an Emotional Support Animal (ESA) in residence halls for a physical or mental disability with Student Success approval.

Sexual Offense Prevention Policy (SOPP)

The SOPP is meant to protect students and enforce verbal affirmative consent when engaging sexually with another person. Reports of sexual misconduct can be directed to the Title IX Coordinator. To learn more about the Title IX process, contact the Title IX Coordinator or visit the Antioch College website.

Students should be aware that all Antioch College employees and Resident Assistants are mandatory reporters except for campus counselors and medical providers. Mandatory reporters are required to report all details of Antioch-related sexual misconduct reports they are made aware of to the Title IX Coordinator. Campus counselors and medical providers are confidential reporters. This means that they are not required to disclose reports of Antioch-related sexual misconduct to the Title IX Coordinator.

Racial Discrimination Prevention Policy (RDPP)

The RDPP protects the rights of people of color (POCs) and promotes an anti-racist environment at Antioch. The college will investigate any claims of RDPP violations. The policy and other forms can be found on the Antioch College website.

5 Levels of Care

There are 5 levels of mental health and substance abuse treatment, ordered from lowest to highest:

1. Outpatient (OPT): Meeting with a therapist or psychiatrist on a regular basis.
2. Intensive outpatient (IOP): Treatment requires more time and attention than outpatient, but does not require living in a facility.
3. Partial hospitalization (PHP): Often referred to as a day program or treatment, patients come to the facility daily or near daily for multiple hours per visit.
4. Residential: For stable patients who still need support for recovery. Patients live at the facility.
5. Inpatient: Provides stabilization after an acute emergency or crisis (e.g. suicide attempt or overdose), with the goal of transitioning the patient to a lower level of care once stable.
